INTRODUCTION

This document contains screen shots of fonts you can use for Print On Demand (POD) Products.   With very few exceptions these are all free for commercial use. (I am making NOT GUARANTEEING here that I got all of them right. Some are hard to tell or say one thing in one place and something slightly different in another place.)

Here is a link to all of the fonts I collected that were free to use commercially. http://HalePringle.com/pod-fonts   I have included a link in this document for each file, showing where I collected the file.

I have focused on heavy fonts here.   IMHO POD products need fonts that are easy to read and thick enough to be easily seen on the product. There are are some very nice fonts that work well on a web site or a wedding invitation, but are virtually invisible on a t-shirt. I have tried to avoid those.

NOTE: There are lots of articles out there that have titles like "Free fonts for Tshirts".   When you download the fonts or read the specs on the download page you will see that 90% are "Free for Personal Use".   You should pay if you are going to put the font on a commercial product. Since there is software out there that lets people see what fonts you used on your products, it is by far the safest course to use fonts that are "Free for Commercial Use" or "Donationware" (go ahead a donate something) or "Freeware" or "100% Free" etc.

Installing Fonts on Windows PCs

There are usually just five easy steps involved to install a new font on your PC.

1. Download the zip file to a folder where you store all of your free fonts
2. Navigate to that folder and find the new zip file. Double click on it.
3. You will see a list of files that are in the zip file.   If there is a read me or a license file, click on that and read it. Make sure I didn't make a mistake here. (You might have to double click on a folder inside of the zip. You want to get to the xxx.ttf or xxx.otf files)
4. Double click on the xxx.otf file if you have a choice, otherwise double click on the xxx.ttf file. (OTF is the newer and more powerful format. I did find one font where the ttf was the better version.)
5. A window will pop up showing the letters in the fonts in different sizes. There are lots of screenshots of these windows below. (They just don't include the INSTALL.) At the top left there is a button called "Install" – Click that.   You are done!

FILE SIZES

T-Shirts – Places like Gearbubble want 300 dpi (dots per inch = pixels per inch) and RGB color and transparent background. The upload area for Gearbubble is 16" tall by 14" wide   300 x 16 = 4800 and 300 x 14 = 4200.

I use 5400 high by 4500 wide, 300 dpi.   This is the required specification for Merch by Amazon and it works on other sites as well.

PURCHASED DESIGNS

I have noticed that many designs have "Personal Use Only" Fonts in them.   I think it is worthwhile specifying to your designer that they use Free to Use Fonts.   Even if the designer has paid for the font, you have not and if you want to edit the file, you will need to use substitute fonts.   When I modify designs (I like Photoshop Elements), I now always substitute Free to Use fonts when I find a "For Personal Use Only" or "Demo" font in the design.   This is another reason to ask for the PSD version of your design as part of the purchase price. This lets you open the design file and see what fonts are being used. (When you open the file, you will see a pop-up window notifying you if there are fonts in the file that you do not have installed on your computer.)

Here are some substitutions I use when certain "must pay for" fonts are asked for and I need to edit a PSD that I purchased.

1. AR Julian   - I use Freshman – Regular
2. AR Decode – I Use Bird of Paradise Regular – one of the few fonts I purchased
3. Badaboom BB Regular Free for Personal – Use DOZEN – included here (Make sure to mark you text as Bold and Italic)
4. Reklame Script Free for Personal – Use Hampster (Make sure to mark you text as Bold and Italic)
5. Bembo Std Extra Bold -   Cardo Bold and Showcard (looks diff, but great for this)

ALREADY INSTALLED FONTS ON WINDOWS PCs

IMPACT Regular is standard on Window and most memes are done with it. Plain, but heavy block and easy to read. (I use Georgia Bold for my xxx.com line on memes.)
